

COA Disclosure Statement – March 2026

Certificate of Analysis (COA) is a document that verifies what is and, more importantly, what is not in a consumable hemp product. We have always maintained a current database of COAs for current and discontinued products we inventory. We keep a digital copy of all product COAs on file for at least 12 months. This is one of the founding pillars we have built our reputation on.

We are committed to selling only the best hemp products from reputable sources and manufacturers that provide us with current batch COAs. This protects us both from consuming a potentially unhealthy or dangerous product. The original copy of these COAs is available for viewing in our stores upon request by customers who participate in our Loyalty Rewards program.

In an effort to maintain transparency, we post these COAs on our website to keep our customers informed and educated about the products we inventory. However, this allows our competitors and other unscrupulous people to mimic our inventory and steal our proprietary sources – especially for our flower. Flower COAs are received directly from our suppliers/distributors with their name and address listed. In order to maintain confidentiality of our sources, we modify only flower COAs to remove this identifying information. No other information is altered or modified in any way. Ever. For the reasons mentioned above, we do not release the un-redacted copy of the COA to the public.

Thank you for your understanding.
